

John Fitzsimmons, MD
Deputy Director
Global Immunization Division
Center for Global Health, CDC

John Fitzsimmons is the Deputy Director of the Global Immunization Division in the National Center for Immunization and Respiratory Diseases (NCIRD) at CDC. He has worked extensively on polio eradication and was formerly with the Pan American Health Organization (PAHO). Dr. Fitzsimmons has been at CDC for more than 10 years and served in various capacities.